TEXAS.

St. Louis Imports Water from Texas.

Contrary to the general opinion that Texas is the driest of states, she has water to sell. Leading St. Louis physicians are recommending the Mineral Wells water and it is being largely exported to that city.

Negroes Strike.

The plantation hands in Fort Bend county and the counties in the "black belt" have struck for higher wages. It is difficult to get farm labor and the crops are growing rapidly and in many cases the farmers have acceded to the demands of the negroes after a few days' delay.

Wheat Twice Shocked.

Hillboro records a curious freak of the lightning. A flash came from a seemingly cloudless sky and set fire to the wheat field of J. W. Leazer. The wheat was perfectly dry and had been out and shocked. A breeze was blowing and before the farm hands could extinguish the flames, twenty four shocks had been destroyed.

County Courthouse Burned.

The Jackson county courthouse at Edna was burned and the building and a large number of valuable records were totally destroyed. The actual money loss is $17,000, the insurance $6,000. It is thought the fire was the deliberate work of some interested incendiary.

Panhandle Troubles.

The stockmen of the Panhandle are making energetic complaints of thefts of stock and of other crimes committed against their property by outlaws in the Panhandle. It is claimed that the peace officers of some of the counties are negligent in protecting the stockmen. Adjutant General Sourry has sent rangers and is himself there investigating the troubles.

El Paso County's Crops.

The Dallas News is printing an exhaustive account of crop conditions all over the state, gives the following for El Paso county:

El Paso—The crops of the valley on the Texas side of the Rio Grande in this county were greatly damaged this season by the long drouth, the river, on which the farmers depend for water to supply their irrigation canals, being entirely dry until a few weeks ago. The corn acreage this year is 40 per cent less than usual. The wheat acreage was greater, but that crop was a failure owing to the drouth. The oat acreage is 30 per cent less than usual. Grapes and alfalfa, two of the most profitable products of the valley, have been cut short about one-half by lack of water, and the fruit crop was greatly damaged. There has been no diversification of crops.
